1. Introduction

“The Semantic meaning of crime against women is direct or indirect physical or mental cruelty to women. Crimes which are directed specifically against women and in which only women are victims are characterized as Crime against Women”. It is equally important to clarify the concept of Violence against women. Violence is also known as abuse and includes any sort of physical aggression or misbehaves. When violence is committed at home it becomes domestic violence and involves family members such as children, spouse, parents or servants. Domestic violence may involve different means such as hitting, kicking, biting, shoving, restraining, throwing objects. In broad terms, it includes threats, sexual abuse, emotional abuse, controlling or domineering, intimidation, stalking, passive/covert abuse and economic deprivation, rape, abduction, kidnapping, murder (all cases of criminal violence, dowry death, wife battering, sexual abuse, maltreatment of a widow and for an elderly women (all cases of domestic violence) and eve-teasing, forcing wife/daughter-in-law to go for feticide, forcing a young widow to commit sati, etc (all cases of social violence), are issues which affect a large section of society(Singh and Choudary,2012).

2. Crime against Women

Violence against women is the most pervasive violence under recognized human rights violence in the world it is also a profound health problem that saps women's energy, compromises their physical and mental health, and erodes their self-esteem. In addition to causing injury, violence increase women's long term risk of a number of other health problems, including chronic pain, physical disability, drug and alcohol abuse and depression. Women with a history of physical or sexual abuse are also at increased risk for unintended pregnancy; sexually transmitted infections in almost every society in the world legitimize, obscure and deny abuse. The same acts that would be punished if directed at an employer, a neighbor or an acquaintance often unchallenged when men direct them at women, especially within the family. For over three decades, women's advocacy groups around the world have been working to more attention to the physical, psychological and sexual abuse of women and to stimulate action. They have provided abused women with shelter, lobbied for legal reforms, and challenged the widespread attitudes and beliefs that support violence against women. (Ellesberg and Heise, 2005).

Increasingly, these efforts are having results today international institutions are speaking out gender –based violence. Surveys and studies are collecting more information about the prevalence and nature of abuse.

3. Constitutional and Legal Provision for Women

The principle of gender equality is enshrined in the Indian Constitution in its Preamble, Fundamental Rights, Fundamental Duties and Directive Principles. The Constitution not only grants equality to women, but also empowers the State to adopt measures of positive discrimination in favor of women for neutralizing the cumulative socio economic, education and political disadvantages faced by them. Within the framework of a democratic polity, our laws, development policies, Plans and programs have aimed at women's advancement in different spheres. India has also ratified various international conventions and human rights instruments committing to secure equal rights of women. Key among them is the ratification of the Convention on Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women (CEDAW) in 1993 Constitutional Provisions for women are as under:

- Article 14, confers on men and women equal rights and opportunities in political, Economic and social sphere.
- Article 15, prohibits, discrimination against any citizen on grounds of religion, race, caste, sex etc.
- Article 16, provides for equality of opportunities matters relating to employment or appointment to any office under the state.
- Article 39(a)(d), mentions policy security of state equality for both men and women the right to a means of livelihood and equal pay for equal work for both men and women.
- Article 42; Direct the State to make provision for ensuring just and humane Conditions of work and maternity relief. MSPI, (2012).

4. Eve Teasing in Kashmir

Despite being caught in conflict and subjected numerous physical and mental traumas, women of Kashmir have shown great character and strength in competing with their counter parts in any other part of the world. At whom, they take care of the house hold chores and outside, they are successful Teachers, Doctors, Engineer and what not. An added feature of the modern day Kashmiri women in her tendency and capacity to step out in her choice of work in any other country. Since the existence of this world, women are subjected to different kinds of violence .with the change in the life style and with the advent of modernization. The forms of violence and nature of crime against women has also changed .This has put a lot of challenge before women folk. There are certain social challenges which might prove suicidal for any such health trend among the women. Today one among the alarming issues is eve teasing in our public transport which women often come across. This is something which needs to be taken care. Transport has become challenge for women folk who, every now and then, have a complaint of teasing and feel frustrated at the alarming increase in such incidents. It has also become nightmarish for womenfolk as, since local buses are usually over loaded. Some ill-mannered and undignified people take undue advantage of the situation unnecessary pushing and managing closeness with women; needless gazing and staring have become the order of the day and thus creates an extremely embarrassing situation for women folk. Moreover, there are only a few people who would raise their voice against the menace and if such a situation arises, at times pin-drop silence is maintained by even those who are brewing with fresh and young blood in veins. Men need to show respect towards the females. Rather than a being a part of menace, they should be guardians of the chastity of their mother's, sister's and daughter's. The Government and Civil Society need to make sure that the already established laws are followed in letter and spirit. ( Bashir, 2012).

Though some time back, Government did start the ladies Bus service but the fate was very unfortunate? Nothing came out from idea and the service was the closed down. And recent developmental initiative had been taken by the officials who reserve eight seats for female passengers which seems as other joke as over loading is a normal routine now and the seats just not possible. One can't deny the fact the population of people has increased at a fast speed in the Jammu and Kashmir particularly in Srinagar city. Women should have separate traffic facility otherwise provide and honorable and decent traffic facility, otherwise provide an honorable and decent traffic management without over loading so that women should not feel harassed (Bashir, 2012).

Eve teasing is mostly witnessed at public places, public transport, streets, coaching centre. Pertinently, coaching centers in Kashmir often feature in news papers for wrong reason such as the growing menace of eve teasing. If we ponder over it we will find that their isn't a single cause but most of them. The culprits are mostly economically poor and socially backward families. For them, practices like playing loud music, capturing pictures on mobile phone while following a girl , indulging in 'Gang Wars' showing off flashing accessories are their charm. Parents are also turn into an accomplice through carelessness. Escorting their daughter to places like coaching centre is seen as the last option. Bollywood has always been at the forefront in promoting 'roadside Romeos' being the highest militarized zone with 'Lawless' laws, 'security forces' also indulge in such acts in Kashmir' these molestations often go unreported for fear of reprisal and exposure to public shame ( Ganie, 2011).

Although, Indian penal code 298 [a] and [b] prescribes 3 months prison and if repeated , 5 years prison with a fine of Rs 5000 while referring to the social crime as equable to observe, remarks or even songs, we still need to do a lot more. If the law would have been enough, then Delhi-capital of India, wouldn't have been referred to as 'one of the world's dangerous places for women. The fact that eve teasing is one of the main causes for increasing rate of female suicide in contemporary societies, and there is a dire need to act fast rather than playing. Keeping in view the above statement it's suggested that;

- Empower the organization like National commission for women (NCW) so that justice would be delivered to the victims at the earliest.
- Police officers, especially females, should be stationed in plain clothes at places often in complaints.
- Special anti- eve teasing cells should be established to confront the menace in an effective manner.
- The employees in the valley should allow female employees to leave at 4:00pm or arrange adequate transport facility for them so that they can reach home before it's too dark especially in winters.
- Parents should be involved into daily activities of children and also provide moral education to them, to keep them on right track. Parents should spend quality and quantity time with their children, as it helps them to share healthy relationship with each other.
- Ulema also have a role to play in curbing social crime. Besides, delivering sermons and speeches, they should encourage people for setting up of "Mohalla committee" in each and every locality for the every act of arresting and bringing the culprit to book that will surely help in bringing an end to this ever growing social evil.

All these measure would be helpful only if we change our attitude towards this social evil and recognize this fact that our own daughter's or sister's can be safe if we prevent the matter from getting bad to worse perhaps, education and educational institutions can play a better role in this regard.

4.2 Existing framework to tackle the problem of Eve Teasing

Crime against women has been existing since times immemorial. Women have been subjected to different kinds of violence and sexual harassment. Eve teasing is no new concept with the advent of modernization. Women who once remained under the four walls of a house got an opportunity to come out of that isolation and they started seeking education and employment. Their role not only remained limited to manage household chorus, but now they had to play multiple roles and started contributed towards the economic wellbeing to their families. With this change in their role, the women started encountering incidence of sexual harassment at public places and work places i.e., eve teasing.

Various legal measure to address the issue of eve teasing at public places, fixes responsibility on many stakeholders and family places it as a violence of once constitutional rights. Supreme court of India in one of its judgment clearly states "Every citizen in this country has right to live with dignity and honor which is a fundamental right guaranteed under article 21 of the constitution of India. Sexual harassment like eve teasing of women amount to violence of rights guaranteed under 14 and 15 as well.

The national crime record bureau statistics shows 71 increases in crime against women between 2010 and 2011. This may be just a tip of an iceberg as majority of cases go unreported due to many reasons, which include fear of shame, lack of family support and lack of faith in police system. The root problem lies also in the fact that eve teasing is persuaded as a minor offence and little is done to prevent it. Also the existing legal regime of section 294, 549 and 354 of RPC are insufficient and the fact that burden of truth lies on women often makes it impossible to nail the accused. Supreme Court has also observed that protection of sexual harassment at work place against women bill 2012 pending in parliament will not be enough to deal with the offence in public spaces. Some of the immediate measures as directed by Supreme Court to tackle the problem include:

1. Increased policing at bus stands, railway, public places as well.
2. Installation of CCTV's in strategic locations making heads of educational institutions responsible for initiatives aimed at prevention of harassment.
3. Public messaging on the issue.
4. Affixing responsibility on the staff of public Transport Instituting help lines and even holding bystanders responsibility.

11. Conclusion

From the data analysis of three groups, one thing is clear that in Srinagar district women are in vulnerable situation. There are lots of women who are tortured in various ways every day. Many women keep silent after such incidents. Usually women don't want to bring forward their domestic and personal problems. But when the problem is out of control it bursts out. Even a woman doesn't want to complain to her parents regarding such incidences as she feels it is the matter of shame. Kashmir is a conflict ridden society where women are in wretched conditions.

In recent years in Kashmir we have witnessed huge atrocities against women rapes, kidnapping, eve teasing, molestations etc. women education is expanding but before that and presently lacs of women are deprived of education, self awareness. Most of them are unaware of rights and law. That's why they are victims of dowry, acid attacks etc. A woman or a girl needs family support after they are victim. Our law should be stronger and its execution is mandatory to monitor. There should be separate law for eve teasing in J&K, and that should not only in papers, we want its reflection in our life. But what is the fault of three years old child who is raped? Before knowing this earth properly she has to face the rapist hand. This study aims to understand the present situation of violence against women in Srinagar district and to understand various factors that are responsible for eve teasing. We want women of positive existence not as show pieces which enhance society's false pride, family's beauty or newspaper sale.
