1. Introduction

Hospitality is the relationship between the guest and the host, or the act or practice of being hospitable. This includes the reception and entertainment of guests, visitors, or strangers. In India hospitality is based on the principle AtithiDevoBhava, meaning "The Guest is God". This principle is shown in a number of stories where a guest is literally a god who rewards the provider of hospitality. From this stems the Indian approach of graciousness towards guests at home, and in all social situations.

The Indian tourism and hospitality industry has emerged as one of the key industries driving growth of the services sector in India. Tourism in India has registered significant growth in the recent years and the country has tremendous potential to become a major global tourist destination.

Indian tourism industry is thriving due to an increase in foreign tourist arrivals and greater number of Indians travelling to domestic destinations than before. In the past few years the real growth has come from within the domestic sector as around 30 million Indians travel within the country in a year. Strong growth in per capita income, rising young population coupled with changing lifestyles are leading to greater expenditure on leisure services.

Hotels are an important component of the tourism product. They contribute in the overall tourism experience through the standards of facilities and services offered by them. The fortunes of the hospitality industry have always been linked to the prospects of the tourism industry and tourism is the foremost demand driver of the industry. Travel & tourism’s contribution to capital investment is projected to grow at 6.5 per cent per annum during 2013-2023, above the global average of five per cent. The tourism policy of Government of India aims at speedy implementation of tourism projects, development of integrated tourism circuits, special capacity building in the hospitality sector and new marketing strategies.

2. Customer Loyalty

Loyalty is the sincerity, devotion, relatedness and faithfulness towards a belief, place, person or organization. Loyalty specifically related to customers only can be termed as customer loyalty. There are many definitions of customer loyalty. Yet each of them fails to realize that loyalty runs hand-in-hand with emotions. Customer loyalty is the result of consistently positive emotional experience, physical attribute-based satisfaction and perceived value of an experience, which includes the product or services.

Consider who you yourself are loyal to. Surely you’ll answer family and friends. Why? Because of the emotional bond you have with them. Your family and friends can do things you may not like, but you stay loyal because of that bond. The same applies with customer loyalty. To prompt customer loyalty you must build an emotional bond with your customers. To build customer loyalty, customer experience management blends the physical, emotional and value elements of an experience into one cohesive experience.

Retaining customers is less expensive than acquiring new ones, and customer experience management is the most cost-effective way to drive customer satisfaction, customer retention and customer loyalty. Not only do loyal customers ensure sales, but they are also more likely to purchase ancillary, high-margin supplemental products and services. Loyal customers reduce costs associated with consumer education and marketing, especially when they become promoters for the organization.

3. Tourism and Hospitality

Tourism and Hospitality Industry has undergone transformation to emerge as one of the largest and fastest growing industries in the world with a global orientation due to privatization, liberalization and Globalization of economies all over the world. As per World Travel and Tourism Council (WTTC) nearly 400 million jobs worldwide are supported by travel and tourism- either directly in the industry or in related sectors. In addition, the United Nations World Tourism Organization estimates that international arrivals are expected to reach nearly 1.5 billion by the year 2020. All this have completely transformed the industry in last five years and the same is going to happen in future. WTTC has named India as one of the fastest-growing tourist destinations in the world for the next 10-15 years. From 11 million travelers in 2008, the figure in expected to touch 29 million visitors by 2018. There is an opportunity in the inbound MICE sector, which has already registered a growth of 15% to 20% during the last five years.

4. Sector Overview

The Indian tourism and hospitality industry experienced a growth of 24.6% during 2009–2010 timeframe. The industry is the third-largest foreign exchange earner, accounting for 6.2% of India’s GDP and 8.8% of India’s total employment, according to a report by the Planning Commission. It has significant linkages with other sectors such as agriculture, horticulture, transportation, handicrafts and construction. The tourism industry includes travel agencies, tour operating agencies and tourist transport operating agencies; units providing facilities for cultural, adventure and wildlife tourism; surface, air and water transport facilities for tourists; and convention/seminar units and organizations.

According to the Planning Commission, the sector creates more jobs per million rupees of investment than any other sector of the economy and is capable of providing employment to a wide spectrum of job seekers, from the unskilled to the specialized, even in the remote parts of the country. The sector’s employment-generation potential has also been highlighted by the World Travel & Tourism Council (WTTC), which says India’s travel and tourism sector is expected to be the second-largest employer in the world, employing 40,37,000 people, directly or indirectly, by 2019.

Travel and tourism is a USD 32 billion business in India, according to industry estimates; in addition, the hospitality sector is sized at USD 23 billion and it is expected that this sector will witness an inflow of USD 12.17 billion in investments over the next two years, according to market research company Technopak Advisors. It is expected that the hospitality sector is expected to see an additional US$12.17 billion in inbound investments over the next two years, based on their estimates.

The size of the Indian hospitality industry is estimated as a sum of revenues of two segments — revenues generated from travel (business, leisure, visiting friends and relatives, religious, meetings and conferences) and revenue generated by consumers eating out at any form of outlet (restaurants, fine dining, quick service restaurants (QSRs), takeaways, or any other form of unorganized eateries).

The Indian tourism sector includes medical and healthcare tourism, adventure tourism, heritage tourism, ecotourism, rural tourism and pilgrimage tourism. Medical tourism also known as health tourism has emerged as an important segment, owing to India’s skilled healthcare professionals and the lower cost of healthcare facilities in the country. Wellness tourism is regarded as a sub-segment of medical tourism and it involves the promotion and maintenance of good health and well being. India, with its widespread use of Ayurveda, Yoga, Siddha and Naturopathy, complemented by its spiritual philosophy, is a well-known wellness destination.

Heritage tourism is oriented towards exploring the cultural heritage of a tourist location. India is well known for its rich heritage and ancient culture. The country’s rich heritage is amply reflected in the various temples, majestic forts, gardens, religious monuments, museums, art galleries and urban and rural sites.

Due to its varied topography and distinctive climatic conditions, India is endowed with various forms of flora and fauna, and it has numerous species of birds, mammals, reptiles, amphibians and plants life on offer for tourism. Wildlife tourism includes wildlife photography, bird watching, jungle safari, elephant safari, jeep safari, jungle camping, ecotourism, etc.

MICE (meetings, incentives, conferences and exhibitions) tourism is also one of the fastest-growing in the global tourism industry. It caters largely to business travelers, mostly corporates. It caters to various forms of business meetings, international conferences and conventions, events and exhibitions. The Ashok, New Delhi; Hyderabad International Convention Centre, Hyderabad; and Le Meridien, Cochin, are forerunners in the Indian MICE tourism industry, facilitating domestic and international business meetings and conferences.
