

- [2] D RHODE. Low leakage and low instability labyrinth seal, Patent no: WO 9501524, Publication date: 12 Jan 1995, Applicant: Twentieth Technology.
- [3] H.A. El-Gamal, T. H. Awad and E. Saber, Leakage from labyrinth seals under stationary and rotating conditions, Journal of Tribology, 1996, 29(4), pp.291-297.
- [4] YUCEL U. and KAZAKIA J. Y, Analytical prediction techniques for axisymmetric flow in gas labyrinth seal, Journal of Engineering for Gas Turbines and Power, 2001, 123(1): pp.255-257.
- [5] WANG Wei-zhe, LIU Ying-zheng. Numerical analysis of leakage flow through two labyrinth seals, Journal of Hydrodynamics, 2007, 19(1), pp.107-112.
- [6] W Zhao, T K Nielsen and J T Billdal. Effects of cavity on leakage loss in straight-through labyrinth seals, IOP Conf. Series: Earth and Environmental Science, 2010, 12, 012002.
- [7] Tribology in machine design by T.A.Stolarski. Butterworth-Heinemann, A division of Reed Educational and Professional Publishing Ltd, 1990, pp.164-170.
- [8] Tribology by H.G.Phakatkar and R.R.Ghorpade. Nirali Prakashan publications, 2009, pp. 8.23-8.30.