

sustainable technology over conventional systems with potential for decentralization” @ Springer Science+Business Media, LLC, (2008)

- [8] Damodhar J. Garkal ang Rahul Keshv Jadhav, “A pilot scale study of vermi-biofilter for residential quarter wastewater”, International Journal of current Research in chemistry and pharmaceutical sciences, vol. 1, pp.71-76, (2014)
- [9] Sharda Dhadse, P. R. Chaudhari, Shanta Satyanarayan, and S. R. Wate, “Vermi-treatment of pharmaceutical wastewaters and Nutrient Bioassay of treated Effluent for resue as irrigation water”, American journal of engineering research, e-ISSN:2320-0847 p-ISSN:2320-0936, Vol-3, Issue-8, pp.113-123, (2014)
- [10] R. W. Gaikwad and A. S. Gaikwad, “ Removal of heavy metal from mine drainage effluents using vermiculture technology”, American International journal of research in formal, Applied and nature sciences, ISSN:2328-2-3777, pp. 7-11, (2014). Availabe:www.iasir.net
- [11] Sinha R.K., Bharambe G., Bapat P “Removal Of High BOD And COD Loading Of Primary Liquid Waste Product From Dairy Industry By Vermifitiation Technology Using Earthworm” Indian Environmental Protection, Vol 27, No. 6 June 2007.

